serve in SUBS

To rig for diving in a modern submarine, the crew must conduct more than 200 individual operational and equipment checks. And to 'take 'er down' in less than a minute . . . man, that takes teamwork. That's why such a feeling of fellowship exists between submariners . . . They are shipmates in every sense of the word. That's why submariners must be outstanding. Become a Seagoing Specialist and serve in subs.

Spread Between Farm Valuation, Income Widens

NEW YORK—Farm income and farm real estate valuations, which normally show similar behavior patterns because of their intimate relationship, have been going separate ways for some two years, creating a paradox without counterpart in the records of agriculture.

Figures compiled by the U.S. Department of Agriculture show that farm income has been in a down trend since 1951. The decline in net farm income from then to date is around 30 per cent, though there have been some stabilizing tendencies recently. Farm real estate prices, by contrast, after a dip in 1953, have been moving up steadily since and are now at record levels on a national basis. The rise from the 1953 low point has been around 8 per cent for the United States as a whole, although substantially greater in a number of states.

The Department of Agriculture calls the duration of this divergence "a unique departure from the usual relationship between land values and farm income," and it emphasizes that the real basis for land values in the future, as in the past, must be the level that can be supported by long-term laffd earnings. For the time being, however, the usual rules prevailing in the land market seem to have been offset by a number of factors that have maintained the demand for farms despite the recent earnings trend.

The biggest single factor in the demand for farms has resulted from the revolution in agricultural production over the last decade and a half with the growth of mechanization and the introduction of new and more efficient farming techniques.

Rare Seal Often Pulls in Head

WASHINGTON—An animal that can pull its head almost completely into its neck—that's the Ross seal, rarest of all the seal family in the Antarctic. Collected by the Navy's polar expedition last winter, a frozen specimen of this unique animal recently arrived at the U.S. National Museum in excellent condition.

The seal—about 8 feet long—is a dweller exclusively on the drifting ice pack of the Ross Sea. So far as known it never comes on land or on the ice shelf. It apparently feeds almost exclusively on cuttlefish and squid, which are abundant in Antarctic waters. The nature of its teeth precludes the likelihood that it is a fish-eater.

It is yellowish-green on the underside and blackish-brown on the top, the fur often being marked with pale streaks along the sides. On the drifting pack it has fearsome enemies—notably the killer whale and the writhing snakelike sea-leopard, most savage of the seal family. This may account for the relative scarcity.

Those Under Retirement Incomes Increasing

NEW YORK—The number of persons 65 years old and over with some assured income for life under a public or private retirement program has doubled in the last five years and now adds up to more than half of the 14 million elderly part of the American population.

A large number of these lifetime income recipients is receiving retirement benefits from more than one source—for example, a private pension and Social Security. In many cases, too, these incomes are supplemented by returns from accumulated savings and investments. A substantial number of elderly persons in addition receives regular incomes under life insurance contracts.

While the great majority of private pension and retirement programs are relatively recent in origin, they are already making a decided contribution toward the financial independence of the older population.

New Rage in Old World Is Hillbilly Music

FRANKFURT, Germany—The old world is rocking these days to some genuine imported hillbilly music.

The American Forces Network puts on a show called "Hillbilly Gasthaus." Gasthaus is German for small hotel.

The program is so popular among Germans that a number of cafes have been renamed "hillbilly gasthauses." AFN gets hundreds of letters from hillbilly enthusiasts. Many are American GI's but quite a few are Europeans.

Polite Pickpocket

NOGALES, Mexico—Even the pickpockets were in a good mood during a festival at this town on the United States border, Hugo W. Miller reported.

A polite pickpocket stole his wallet, but, said Miller: "He even buttoned my pocket again after lifting my purse."

4-H'ERS TO TRY FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

College scholarships worth $400 each for 18 national winners will be given this year in the 4-H poultry, field crops, and entomology programs, the state 4-H club office at VPI has announced.

In addition, 48 state champions will receive trips to the 1957 national 4-H club congress to be held in Chicago early in December, and county blue award groups will get gold-field medals of honor.

The boys and girls who enroll in the poultry program will learn the latest methods in poultry and egg production and marketing.

Details about participation in these national 4-H awards programs and others are available from county agricultural and home demonstration agents.

Time to get ready for Mothers Day.

Alfalfa growers in several Virginia counties now have another worry. The alfalfa stem nematode is present in at least six counties and farmers throughout the state are alerted to its possible spread.
